PRICE FIVE CENTS.

THE DELEGATES HERE

TO ATTEND THE INTERNATIONAL AMERICAN CONGRESS

TO FORMALLY ORGANIZE WEDNESDAY

Preliminary Meetings to be Held—The Excursion Schedule to be Adhered to—Fred Douglass Off for Hayti.

WASHINGTON, September 29.—Most of the foreign delegates to the international American congress have reached the city, and will have an informal conference with the delegates on the part of the United States tomorrow morning, for the purpose of talking over the order of business before the formal organization Wednesday. At 11 o'clock, Wednesday, the delegates on the part of the United States will have a conference with the secretary of state, and receive his instructions.

Many telegrams have been received from various cities throughout the country which are not included in the programme of the excursion tendered the foreign delegates, but to all of them the same reply has been sent.

It is impossible at this late hour to make any change in the itinerary, as every day is occupied, and arrangements for the entertainment of the guests have been completed in nearly every city to be visited.

Fred Douglass for Hayti.

Fred Douglass, new United States minister to Hayti, will leave this city tomorrow morning for New York, where he will immediately board the United States steamer Kearsarge, which will convey him to Hayti. Mr. Douglass says that the Kearsarge will leave Brooklyn navy yard Tuesday morning at ten o'clock and that he expects to get into port at Hayti in time to see President Hippolyte's inauguration on the eighth of October.

A BRUTAL OUTRAGE.

Angry Crowds Looking for the Wicked Perpetrator.

SABATHA, Kansas, September 29.—This place is excited tonight over the brutal outrage of Miss Eva Purty, the 18 year old daughter of a wealthy farmer. During the absence of her parents at church an unknown man entered the house, seized and chloroformed the girl, and then carried her to a field near by, where she was brutally outraged. Carbolic acid was then poured down her throat and she was left to die. The last act cast suspicion upon a discarded lover of the victim, but he was not arrested. Squads of men set out to capture the fiend, and a tramp named Richard Hollow was arrested, though there is no direct evidence against him. The prisoner narrowly escaped lynchings. The girl cannot live through the night. Miss Purty recently received an anonymous note threatening her with vengeance unless she renounced her intended husband and bestowed her affections on the sender, for whom unsuccessful search was made.

ONE MILLION IN FLAMES.

A Destructive Fire Sweeps Away a Montana Town.

ST. PAUL, Minn., September 29.—A fire at Batte, Mont., according to reports thus far received by the Pioneer Press, has been brought under control.

HAMILTON VISITS HIS WIFE.

An Affectionate Scene Between the Pair at May's Landing Jail.

MAY'S LANDING, September 29.—Robert Ray Hamilton, in company with a friend, arrived here at 8:15 this evening, having driven from Pleasantville. They walked into the American hotel, engaged rooms for the night, and immediately went to the residence of the sheriff. Their presence was made known to Mrs. Hamilton, who raised the window, and after adjusting the wire screen paced the floor like a caged tigress till the door opened.

At this time she was standing immediately in front of the window, and as Mr. Hamilton approached with outstretched hand she clasped it in both hers while with his other arm he clasped her to his bosom and there was a long, tender embrace, the presence of a third party probably preventing any more violent demonstration. There was evidently some very earnest conversation and soon Mrs. Hamilton resumed the role of a caged tigress and paced the floor.

Hamilton's arrival here was evidently clandestine and well timed, for he came at an hour when this little village was in its quietest mood, and had it not been that he had to apply to your correspondent for change to pay the hackman who brought him he would have come and gone and none would have been the wiser.

What the purpose of Hamilton's visit was and what will be the outcome of course can only be conjectured, but it seems clearly to indicate that the unfortunate woman has by no means lost that power over her husband which has caused him so much notoriety.

On Hamilton's arrival in town his face betrayed all the eagerness of the lover and was in strong contrast with that of the Robert Ray Hamilton on the witness stand last week. It was rumored today that Sheriff Johnson was to take Mrs. Hamilton to Trenton tomorrow morning, but his absence in Atlantic City tonight on other business upsets that part of the programme. At midnight Mrs. Hamilton is again pacing the floor and, in a loud tone of voice, is heard to say:

"Ray, Ray, you told you that? How dare they say it?"

"Ray, you'll never forgive me."

DELIGHTED FARMERS.

Florida Alliance Men Having a Good Time at St. Augustine.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., September 29.—The Farmers' alliance convention which has been in session at Jacksonville for the past three days adjourned last night sine die. Most of the work was secret, but the deliberations have resulted in many measures which will tend to make Jacksonville the cotton market and distributing point for Florida products. A better understanding has been arrived at with transportation companies, and the alliance men feel much gratified at the result of their conference. At noon today, upon the invitation of the Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West Railway company, about 125 delegates came to St. Augustine, where they will be guests of H. M. Flagler until tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel Alcazar. The freedom of the city has been given them, and they are enjoying themselves immensely tonight. Their entertainment has consisted of inspections of the famous hotel, Ponce de Leon, a visit to the United States army barracks, sports in the Casino, the swimming pool, drives about the city and a sail in the harbor. The delegates are delighted with their entertainment. They return to their homes on special trains tomorrow morning.

THE OPELIKA FAIR.

The Grounds and Buildings in Good Order for the Opening.

OPELIKA, Ala., September 29.—[Special.]—Opelika is making big preparations for her fair, which opens here two weeks from Monday. The grounds and buildings are being put in first-class condition. The half-mile race track which has been pronounced by the judges to be one of the best in the South is now being smoothed.

THE CZARINA'S COLD

CAUSES A REARRANGEMENT OF THE PROGRAMME

OF THE VISIT OF THE RUSSIANS

To Potsdam and Berlin—The Emperor of Germany Examining Into Electricity for the Execution of Criminals.

BERLIN, September 28.—[Copyright, 1889, by the New York Associated Press.]—The czar has sent an autograph letter to Emperor William stating that the czarina has caught cold, and that her physicians have advised her to delay her departure for several days. The czar asks that final direction for his reception at Potsdam be delayed. Prince Bismarck has since communicated with Count Schouvaloff, Russian minister, in regard to the arrangements of the czar in the event of his coming to Berlin. Count Schouvaloff replied that he had orders to prepare to receive the czar and his suite at the embassy. The czar himself has not intimated his intentions beyond his visit to Potsdam.

The emperor will go to Schwerin Tuesday as a guest of the grand duke of Mecklenburg. According to the National Zeitung, the czar's visit is officially fixed for October ninth. The absence of Giers, Russian prime minister, who is now staying in a remote part of the province of Tambo, does not appear to affect Prince Bismarck's determination to have an audience with the czar.

TALKING WAR AGAIN.

This week has been signalized by an outbreak of war clamor by the semi-official press. The Cologne Gazette publishes an alarmist article on extension of Russian strategic railways on the frontier, which the North German Gazette prominently quotes. There is a simultaneous reappearance of war notes in the chancellor's organ. Vienna papers foment the scare by statements that Russians along the frontiers of Galicia and Bukovina are in active motion. Six regiments of cavalry and four of infantry have, they say, arrived from the interior. Observation towers are being erected close to the Galician frontier, the whole aspect of the country giving the impression that the army is making a strategic march. These reports have been directly suppressed by Vienna and Berlin ministers. Bismarck's motive in recreating the agitation over Russian armaments on the eve of the czar's reception is variously interpreted. Recalling incidents prior to the last interview the czar accorded him here, it is obvious that the chancellor aims to place the czar again under the necessity of

GRANTING A POLITICAL CONFERENCE.

The reports also serve other purposes, as they tend to balk Russia's efforts to negotiate a loan for the payment of the cost of the repeating rifles ordered in France and prepare the reichstag to accept the new military bill, which is now known to involve an extra credit of 240,000,000 marks, but if the indifference shown by the bourse over the attempted scare, forecasts the feeling of the reichstag, Prince Bismarck will find the members less susceptible than formerly to the old trick.

The czar's aversion to meeting the chancellor or to giving his visit any character other than that of formal courtesy, has been intensified by the projected journey of Emperor William to Constantinople.

THE PRINCE OF BISMARCK is now in Constantinople.

FERRY NOT SATISFIED.

He Says Corrupt Practices Defeated Him—Will Run Again.

PARIS, September 29.—M. Ferry, who was defeated in the recent election for member of the chamber of deputies, has written a letter to the electors of the district of the Vosges department in which he ran, saying that violence, dishonesty and corruption disorganized for the moment the republicans of the district, and that such a state of affairs cannot last long. His defeat, he says, is of small consequence. He will remain on the battlefield until the coalition against the government is broken.

Boulanger has issued an address to the electors of Montmartre, in which he says that they have replied to the iniquitous charges of the senate by electing him to the chamber. The government finding its trickery of no effect had resorted audaciously to the annulling of votes. This the general declares was an act of sheer brigandage. The rights of electors and their privileges had been trampled under foot. Republicans ought to see that the rights of voters were restored.

President Carnot received the members of the commercial congress today. In his speech to the delegates he referred to the happy result of the elections. He said that the destinies of republican France are not assured. It behooved the chambers to attend less to speculative politics and to devote themselves to practical business and pacific developments.

THE EXHIBITION AWARDS.

President Carnot Thanks the Foreign Powers for Their Interest.

PARIS, September 29.—The exhibition awards were distributed at Palais de l'Industrie today. President Carnot and Premier Tirard made speeches, in which they expressed hearty thanks to the foreign powers and exhibitors, who had contributed to the great success and brilliancy of the exhibition. President Carnot said that France would not forget these marks of esteem and sympathy. He dwelt upon the value of such lesson at time when the study of social questions and the examination of means for defending commercial interests were more than ever necessary, and he hoped it would open up an era of peace, and that the guests would carry away enlightened views which would not be without effect upon the relations between nations. The exhibition would then have served the great cause of peace and humanity.

AN ARCHBISHOP TALKS.

He Declares That the Italians are Victims of Over-Taxation.

DUBLIN, September 29.—Archbishop Croke, the Catholic primate of Ireland, preaching in Armagh cathedral today, referred in the strongest terms to Italy's treatment of the pope. He declared that the Italian peasantry were over-taxed, and in a worse condition than the Donegal and Connemara peasants; that the Italians were emigrating faster than the Irish, and that the Italian government had encircled the vatican with troops, knowing that if the pope departed the grass would soon grow in the streets of Rome.

FLOODS IN MEXICO.

Not a Single Case of Yellow Fever in Vera Cruz this Year.

CITY OF MEXICO, September 29.—[Via Galveston.]—The floods at Celaya and Lagos continue. The first train on the Central railroad got through today. The national trains will not be able to go through for several days, but passengers and mails are transferred from one section to the other.

I. Mastella Clark, editor of the Two Republics, left for New York today.

A RAILROAD WAR.

WHICH HAS BEEN CONDUCTED ON A SMALL SCALE.

A CURIOUS STORY FROM DUBLIN.

Dr. Hightower Exacts Terms Which Cannot be Met, Which Causes the Railroad to Flank Him.

DUBLIN, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—Dublin comes to the front with the most peculiar railroadings perhaps in the history of the state. The Wrightsville and Tennille railroad, a line thirty-six miles long from Tennille to this place, stopped on the other side of the Oconee river three years ago, not having the money then to cross. Ever since they have been there they have been intolerably harassed by litigation. The verdict of two thousand dollars damages given at the last term of the court, Judge D. M. Roberts on the bench and John M. Stubbs attorney,

CAPPED THE CLIMAX.

The road's attorneys are F. M. Daly, of Wrightsville, and Fielder & Corker, of Dublin. The verdict was for not a quarter of a mile where the railroad runs down the bank of the Oconee to connect with the steamers for river freight. At this estimate the real valuation for purchasing purposes would run up into fabulous figures. Prominent lawyers say that there is not the slightest chance for the verdict to stand. Ever since the Wrightsville and Tennille have been operating to Dublin they have been making money rapidly, until now they are THOROUGHLY INDEPENDENT.

Dr. R. H. Hightower, who owns the land on both sides of the river, was offered three thousand dollars if he would allow the railroad to bridge the Oconee, and run into Dublin, a distance of half a mile. This was refused and now comes the unique part of the affair. On yesterday the Wrightsville and Tennille railroad put a surveying corps out at Condon, a station four miles from Dublin, and they propose to bridge the Oconee a mile or so below Dublin and come into town.

THE EMPIRE AND DUBLIN RAILROAD, which is working this way rapidly from Empire on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, propose to stand by the Wrightsville and Tennille, and will meet them below Dublin and cross the river where they will not be harassed by litigation.

The outcome of this matter is generally and constantly discussed on the streets, and the universal opinion is that the roads will "meet below."

DEATH OF MR. B. J. JONES.

The Fatal Result of an Accidental Shot.

GRIFFIN, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—Mr. B. J. Jones, who accidentally shot himself yesterday afternoon, died at half-past five o'clock this morning. Although his mental faculties up to his last breath. His aged father and sisters arrived in the city last night and were with him in his dying hours. All that human agencies could avail to prolong his life or relieve his suffering was done by the three physicians attending him, but to no purpose. The fatal shot was fired from a 44-caliber Colt's army pistol.

Mr. Jones was born in Meriwether county, Ga., in 1850, hence was in his thirty-ninth year. He was a large and powerful man.

THE DEATH OF GENERAL D. H. HILL

Suitably Commemorated by the Middle Georgia College.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—At a called meeting of the faculty, Major J. Colton Lynes in the chair, the announcement of the death of the former president of the college, General D. H. Hill, was made by the chair and such action in the premises requested, as the faculty saw proper. On motion, it was decided, that the faculty and students be assembled in the chapel; that the president announce the sad tidings in such manner as would express the deep sorrow thereat; that the exercises of the college be suspended for the remainder of the day; that the chair of Ex-President Hill, and the banner and collars of the college, be suitably draped and placed upon the rostrum, and finally, that a committee be appointed to draft suitable resolutions. All of which were duly carried into effect and the following resolutions adopted:

Whereas, The sorrowful tidings of the decease of General D. H. Hill, the beloved former president of this college, has been officially announced, be it therefore

Resolved, That we bow unto the will of the Creator, who alone has the right to call unto his hosts the valiant, the good and the noble.

Resolved 2, That with the decease we recognize that the cause of education loses one of its most honorable and distinguished supporters, and college the influence of one whose name and fame, being synonymous with success, has placed its standard on an eminence which legislators and citizens at large not only appreciate, but contemplate with pride.

Resolved 3, That as a patriot's memory should be hallowed by future manhood and womanhood this college inscribe upon its records for recognition by its officers and students the fact that the honor of the American republic, the just powers of the federal government, the equal rights of the states, the integrity of the constitutional union and law, and the enforcement of order, had no defender more true and worthy than the noble ex-soldier of the south, General Daniel Harvey Hill.

Resolved 4, That we tender our condolence to the family of deceased; that his late office desk and chair, together with the college colors, be suitably draped and placed upon the rostrum.

Resolved further, That the original of these resolutions be sent to the family of deceased, and a copy each to the Union-Recorder and ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

SWALLOWING A PIN.

The Question of Its Fatality Set at Rest by an Experienced Observer.

GRIFFIN, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—The Griffin Call, speaking of Will Pollard having swallowed a pin, and its being left in his throat says: It is generally supposed that anything with a sharp edge or point when introduced in the stomach will produce death, but occurrences show that it will not always do so. Sometime ago a little child in this city swallowed a penknife with one blade open and survived it. The incident was considered a miraculous escape at the time, but when it was shortly afterwards learned that a baby had SWALLOWED SEVERAL PINS and survived the dose, people ceased to wonder. A gentleman related the following facts which others can vouch for, and which proves that the swallowing of a pin or needle is not always attended by fatal results:

"Several years ago I knew of a man who killed a cow, and when the beef was being dressed he found a bagging needle through his heart. He remembered afterward that a bagging needle had been misplaced several days before and about that time the cow seemed sickly. His idea was, the cow had a piece of thread in the needle and while trying it up swallowed the needle and it followed process.

WORKED INTO THE HEART.

Another instance where I noticed that a man had swallowed a needle, was when boarding at a certain place here in Griffin. I had always been fond of chickens, and when I took my Compliments to Georgia Legislators—A Mystery of the Sea—A Mule Decides an Election—The Sale of Sea Island Cotton.

The Augusta News has complimentary words for its local representative, Hon. Joseph R. Lamar, and says: "He is easily one of the leaders of the house, and it is certain that his influence is second to no man in that body, which is one of the strongest that has met in Georgia for a long time. The people of Augusta are fortunate in having his services in the legislature, in which position he has had full opportunity of demonstrating to the state what his own people have long known of him. In the legislature he has a wider scope than he has heretofore had, and his continued advance will make the legislature the stepping stone to something higher. No young man in Georgia has a brighter prospect, and no county is more fortunate than Richmond in being represented by such an able and conscientious member." The News further says:

There are some members of the legislature whom the Evening News can endorse and stand by every day in the year. They are always for Georgia, always for progress and always for the people. The Hon. Clark Howell stands in the front row of this able array, and among the brilliant and rising young men of the state he has no superior. As a genial, gifted and delightful companion he holds his own anywhere, and he is a genuine chip of the old block. And he is doing man in this old commonwealth, mark that. Clark Howell is an Atlanta man and he is doing credit to the capital of the state. He is also a Georgia man and he is now here at home with his better half. A more attractive personality cannot be found than these two Atlanta and Augusta people moulded into one, and the freedom of the city is theirs today and whenever they call for the key.

The following poem was composed by Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Bullard on her death bed near Columbus, Ga., about thirty-seven years ago. She had two little children—one and three years old. It was published at the time of her death, but has never been in print since:

O, God, look down from heaven above
And with parental care and love
Protect my babes while here below,
And blessings which they need bestow.
O, guide their infant steps aright,
And may they ever take delight
In serving thee. O, God, impress
Their little hearts with tenderness;
Preserve them from the snares of youth;
Teach them to speak and act the truth,
And may they walk in wisdom's way,
Nor from the path of virtue stray.
These precious treasures I commend
Into Thy hand, O Lord, defend
Them from all harm while here they stay—
To wander in life's devious way.
And then at last, O may we meet,
Parents and children at Thy feet.
Give us a home in heaven above
To dwell where all is peace and love.

Captain Augusta Guill, of Bairdstown, is now the oldest man in Green county. He is nearly 98, and is quite spry yet.

O. A. Lester, of Schley, says that he has out-reined cotton, and gone into a better business. Schley is a dry county, and imports a great deal of whisky in jugs. All the women know that the jugs contain whisky. He has gone to raising gourd. He has one gourd vine that covers a quarter of an acre of land, and there are thirty-three gourd on it that will hold from a half of a gallon to a quart. He says that the gourd is better to hold liquor than the jugs, and are lighter to carry.

The Rome Tribune gives the name of the man who swore out the warrants against Messrs. Williamson and Calhoun:

L. D. McCalmon.
That is the name of the man who swore out the warrants for the arrest of the duellists.
The two Alabama officers who made the arrest rather objected to giving the matter away. However, after some persuasion, and by aid of a good friend, a Tribune reporter learned the name yesterday morning before the officers left for their homes.
Mr. McCalmon was deputized to arrest the duelling party and it was he whom Ed Bruffey fooled.
There will doubtless quite a party go down to Cedar Bluff, Ala.

There is in seven miles of Whigham one of the most picturesque spots in Georgia. Lime Sink falls, where a large bold stream of pure freestone water, rising from a never failing spring, comes coursing its way through high, pleasant pine hills, until it reaches Whigham, where, after running for a hundred yards over a bed of solid rock, it falls into a recess hewn out of the rock, and which is perhaps twenty feet long by five or six feet in depth, entering a large iron pipe through which the greatest volume of the water shoots over a precipice of solid rock into the basin below, the depth of the basin being estimated at one hundred feet below the surrounding hills. The water here disappears under the rock, and although about one hundred gallons per minute rushes over the falls, yet the whole of it disappears under the huge rock, whose fern-clad sides present a sublime spectacle. In this rock a cavern or passageway, large enough for men to go through conveniently reaches for a considerable distance, at the other end of which is a beautiful stream of water, almost like a river, that can be seen at that great depth. The effect of the falling waters is wonderfully pleasant. When it is too warm to be comfortable above, there is a pleasant cool breeze at the bottom of the basin, the effect of this breeze has a bracing tendency that makes one feel good all day. Mr. Miller, of Thomasville, has recently photographed the falls for Mr. R. A. Connell, who has those pictures, which are fine works of art. Mr. Connell has a theory that this would be a magnificent site for the erection of a large 200 or 300 room hotel.

L. M. Pleasants, the colored politician and aspirant for offices innumerable, has been taken care of at last. He has received his commission as deputy collector of internal revenue for the thirteenth division, including Laurens, Pulaski, Dodge, Montgomery, Tattnall, Wilcox, Telfair, Irwin, Coffee, Appling, Ware, Liberty, McIntosh, Berrien, Pierce, Echols, Lowndes, Wayne, Glenn, Clinch, Camden and Charlton counties. He went to Brunswick yesterday morning to relieve Nelson.

The Brunswick Times is filling the field for that section of Georgia most admirably. The newspaper world of Brunswick was just stirred up by Mr. Brobston, who went from Madison to take charge of the Brunswick News. He gave the people an admirable paper, and would have made a decided mark in the Georgia news field, but the boom carried him away and he went into the real estate business, in which he has proven himself to be a conscientious negotiator. Later, Mr. A. I. Branham, who did long and effective service on THE CONSTITUTION, took charge of the paper, changing its name to the Times and associating with him some excellent talent in the persons of Messrs. Brumby, Martin, Lambright and Forrester. Mr. Branham has given to the Times a spice and originality which makes it an instant victim for the shears in every newspaper office. Brunswick may depend on it that Branham will hold up his end of the boom equal to the best of them.

BUSINESS IN MILLEDGEVILLE.

Saturday a stirring day in the Commercial History of Milledgeville.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—Saturday, and, indeed, every day last week were stirring days in Milledgeville's commercial history. Cotton rolled into the city from every direction, and buyers and factors were kept busy through the entire week. Trade was fine, and merchants and clerks were on the go until late at night. Though the price for cotton ruled considerably under the prices for the previous week, the staple was thrown on the market quickly and the market was emptied. THE STRANGE LIGHTS

AND THE GHOST WALKING DOWN THE TRACK.

Two Tragedies Which Bear a Close Relation—One the Result of Conjurment, and the Other Preceded by Mysterious Signs.

ALBANY, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—Mr. W. E. Mitchell, of this city, today received a letter from Allegheny Station, Va., which tells a curious tale. A month ago Dick Winston, track walker on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, was assassinated by another negro who claimed he had conjured a member of his family. Another negro, Joe Rose, a man liked by black and white, succeeded him. No sooner had he entered upon his duties than he claimed to see

THE SPIRIT OF THE DEAD WINSTON either entering the tunnel where he formerly worked, or the culvert where he fell when shot. Strange characters would suddenly shine out upon the dark sides of the interior of the tunnel like the famous handwriting on the wall. These strange visitations continued for a month. Joe went to the White Sulphur springs Saturday night. At the station he accidentally brushed against a mulatto boy, one of the crowd of insolent darkies which is quartered at this popular resort. The mulatto would take no explanation, but going to his room brought his pistol and

SHOT ROSE DEAD.
He lay weltering in his blood at the ticket office in the orange colored depot of the springs until a coroner's jury tardily assembled. The negroes connect the visitations and ghostly appearances, with this fatality, considering them as warnings to Rose of his approaching death.

LINCOLNTON COMES OUT, And Makes Her Modest Bow to the Outside World.

LINCOLNTON, Ga., via Washington, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—The Washington and Lincolnton telephone line was completed yesterday afternoon, and, notwithstanding the day, there has been a constant halloo today. The work of stringing the wires and getting in operation the distance of twenty miles was done in four days by Mr. E. H. Eubanks, of Atlanta, who is an expert at the business. Mr. P. J. Holliday, the president of the company, deserves much credit for building the line.

MAON LOCOMOTION. Developments About the Electric Railway System.

MAON, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—Mr. McQuinn, representing the Thompson-Houston company, arrived in Macon yesterday from Atlanta and went over the route of the street car line to inspect it, preparatory to the introduction of electricity. Mr. McQuinn says that his company can have four electric cars and two miles of railway in operation by October 23, the opening day of the state fair. The Thompson-Houston people have signed a contract with President Work, of the street car company, to push the road and have the entire electric line completed within twelve months. Construction of the road will commence on Monday next. The large and fine eighty-horse power engine to run the road arrived on yesterday, and Schofield & Son will have the one-hundred horse power boiler finished in a short time. It seems to be the general impression that when the dummy line is offered at public sale the street car company will purchase it.

CHASED BY CHIEF KENAN.

An Exciting Adventure in Macon Saturday Night.

MACON, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—Chief of Police Kenan had rather an exciting adventure last night about 11 o'clock on Washington avenue, near Orange street, as he was on his way home from the city hall.

While walking on the sidewalk he noticed three negro men a short distance ahead of him who were talking loud and cursing. The three men were strung out across the sidewalk, and Chief Kenan could not pass except by passing between two of them. This he did, whereupon one of the negroes, Henry Paul, became very impudent and profane, and said to the chief in a loud tone:

"You had better try that again, and I will give you something to remember." The chief stopped, turned around, and asked the negro what he said. Paul repeated the words in a menacing tone and with some vulgarity and profanity. The chief did not have on his uniform, but was attired in citizen's dress, nor did he have a pistol. The negroes did not know him in the dark. The chief caught Paul by the lapel of his coat collar, gave the negro a jerk up against the fence, and said he would carry him to the barracks for his loud talking and cursing.

Paul said: "I guess you won't carry me anywhere," and as he spoke, he jerked loose from the chief and in the twink of an eye had drawn a pistol and leveled it in the face of the chief, and with a vile oath exclaimed, that he would kill him if he did not move on and leave him alone. So close were the two men standing that when Paul leveled his pistol at the chief, the end of the barrel tipped the chief under the left eye, knocking the skin off and causing the blood to spurt. The pain of the hurt made the chief very angry, and he felt in his pocket for his knife but had none. Paul saw the movement and leveling the pistol again in the chief's face, cursed and said he would blow his head off if he attempted to draw a weapon.

As the chief was unarmed, he said to the negroes:

"Well, come along, and don't let's have any trouble," and the four started up the street together. The object of the chief was to enter his house near by, get his pistol and arrest or kill Paul if he resisted. The negroes must have divined the chief's purpose, for when he entered his house, they ran rapidly up Washington avenue towards Vineville. The chief then telephoned to the city barracks for an officer, and in a few moments Officer Palethorpe responded with his usual alacrity, and the chief and Palethorpe started in swift pursuit of the negroes. They soon overtook two negroes in Vineville, near W. H. Virgin's house, and arrested them. The chief was not absolutely certain of the identification, but felt confident that Henry Paul was the one who had threatened to shoot him. He was searched, but no pistol was found on his person. The other negro, Charlie Smith, was also searched and a pistol was found on him. Paul gave conflicting statements as to his whereabouts at the time of the difficulty, none of which he was able to substantiate. Paul and Smith were carried to the barracks. The third negro could not be found. Today Smith said that he was not one of the negroes who assaulted the chief last night, but stated that Paul told him that he (Paul) was the one who had threatened to shoot Kenan, and that Paul had given him his pistol to keep for him. The matter will be investigated in the courts tomorrow.

AN OLD PAPER.

A Conveyance Written by a Negro in Screven County.

SYLVANIA, Ga., September 29.—[Special.]—A very amusing deed is recorded in the clerk's office. It was written by a negro, Louis Kirby, ten years ago, and conveys a tract of land to Moses Sharpe. Whether it was "lawful done" or not, it has thus far answered all purposes, and there is no doubt that the said Moses is still in quiet and peaceable possession of his "Thirty 40 acres of more or less." The deed is given below, word for word and letter for letter.

The State of Georgia, I, Louis Kirby, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original of the within and foregoing deed, as the same appears from the records of the county of Screven.
